PUTRAJAYA INFORMATION

History of Putrajaya

Putrajaya is a planned city, 25 km south of Kuala Lumpur, that serves as the federal administrative centre of Malaysia. The seat of government was shifted in 1999 from Kuala Lumpur to Putrajaya, due to overcrowding and congestion in the Kuala Lumpur area. Nevertheless, Kuala Lumpur remains Malaysia's national capital, being the seat of the King and Parliament, as well as the country's commercial and financial centre. Putrajaya was the brainchild of former Prime Minister Tun Dr Mahathir Mohammad. In 2001, Putrajaya became Malaysia's third Federal Territory after Kuala Lumpur and Labuan.

Named after the first Malaysian Prime Minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman Putra, the city is within the Multimedia Super Corridor, beside the recently developed Cyberjaya. In Sanskrit, "putra" means "prince" or "male child", and "jaya" means "success" or "victory". The development of Putrajaya started in early 1990s, and today major landmarks have been completed and the population is expected to grow in the near future.

Interesting places in Putrajaya

Putra Mosque

One of the most modern mosques in the world is the Putra Mosque. Putra Mosque is situated opposite of Putrajaya Lake. Putra Mosque is known as the most unique landmarks in the world. Putra Mosque has a mixture of Malaysian, Persian and Arab-Islamic architectural designs. Putra Mosque has Islamic architecture, where it artistically combines traditional designs and local craftsmanship and uses indigenous materials. This Islamic architecture is a showcase of how mosque designs have evolved in Malaysia. After the Persian Islamic architecture of the Safavid period, Putra Mosque was modeled with the elements that derived from other Muslim cultures. Putra Mosque's main entrance is designed in a similarity of a public building gate in Muslim Persia. Putra Mosque has a minaret, which was influenced by Sheikh Omar mosque's design in Baghdad. The height of this minaret is 166 meters. Putra Mosque's basement wall design is similar to the King Hassan mosque in Casablanca, Morocco. Putra Mosque is built in rose tinted granite. The Prayer Hall of Putra Mosque is simple and elegant. Putra Mosque's prayer hall consists of 12 columns to support the 36 meter diameter main dome. Putra Mosque has complex, where it can accommodate an approximately of 10,000 worshippers. Putra Mosque's complex also can be used to hold seminars, conferences and symposiums. There was a paved courtyard in front of the Putra Mosque's prayer hall, where it can hold an additional of 5,000 people. The courtyard is landscaped with water features. Many worshippers will gather in this courtyard to worship the deity.

Seri Perdana Complex (Prime Minister's Residence)

Seri Perdana Complex is an official residence for the present and future Prime Ministers of Malaysia. Seri Perdana Complex is used for official banquets and receptions. Seri Perdana Complex consists of 3 blocks, which are the banquet, reception and residence block. The main reception and banquet block is open to the public for guided tours. These 2 blocks are also used as a formal visitor area. As for the residence block, it is used as a private home for the Prime Minister to stay with his family. Seri Perdana Complex has a combination of the Malays and Islamic architectures such as the repetitive columns and arches, stately mosaic clad dome, decorative surfaces and well-laid gardens. Even the furniture, walls, plinths and carpets of Seri Perdana Complex have elegant cursive calligraphy, Islamic geometric design and foliated designs that replicated the nature. Seri Perdana Complex also has a combination of western and contemporary elements to reflect the universal outlook of the Malaysian psyche. Seri Perdana Complex also provides panoramic views of the city. There are 7 landscaped zones such as the Laman Sari, Laman Tiba, Laman Tengah, Laman Depan, Entrances and Access Road, The Private Garden and The Orchard. Each and every landscaped zone has its own function and sizes. One will be amazed with the beautiful landscaped grounds after one has visited Seri Perdana Complex.

Putra Bridge

Putra Bridge is a twin-deck bridge. Putra Bridge has the span of 435 meters, where it links Dataran Putra with the Persiaran Perdana. Putra Bridge architecture is same with the Khaju Bridge in Isfahan, Iran.

Putra Bridge also connects the Government Precinct with the Mixed Development Precinct. In fact, the higher level of Putra Bridge is a part of the Persiaran Perdana.

Putra Bridge provides several accesses such as light rail, pedestrian and vehicle access. Putra Bridge also offers restaurants within the support of its main pillar.

Botanical Garden

Botanical Garden is situated at the northern section of Precinct 1. Botanical Garden is a centre for education and research. Botanical Garden is deigned to act as a national sanctuary for Malaysian plant taxonomy. Now, Botanical Garden's first phase is open to the public. The main building of the Botanical Garden is the building, which has the most attractions to visitors. These attractions include Restaurant, interactive Exhibition and Souvenir Shop. Botanical Garden provides features such as Lakeside Cafe, Pandanus Walk, Canna Walk, Fern Garden, Sun Garden, which is also known as the Orchid Path, Lakeside, which is also known as Hibiscus Walk and Floral Garden, which comprises of African Collection, Tropical African Collection, Asia Pacific Collection, Floral Steps, Ficus shade and Rain shelter. Botanical Garden also has other features such as the Palm Hill, Canopy Bridge, Bougainvillea Tunnel, Explorer's Trail, Heliconia Trail and Vine Garden.

Putrajaya Lake

Putrajaya Lake has dominated a natural landscape to Putrajaya Wetlands. Both Putrajaya Lake and Putrajaya Wetlands are the most unique features of the city. Putrajaya Lake consists of 650 hectare. Putrajaya Lake is designed to act as the natural cooling system for recreation, water transport, water sports and fishing. Putrajaya Wetland was built to clean the water before the water merges with the Putrajaya Lake. Putrajaya Wetland was also built to remove the water pollutants. Both features can provide sufficient clean water for recreational activities, water sports and body contact in Putrajaya Lake.

Putrajaya Cruise Tasik (Putrajaya Cruise Lake)

Putrajaya Cruise Tasik is a beautiful lake, where visitors can enjoy at Putrajaya Cruise Tasik and at the same time watching the various attractive landmarks and scenery of the city. From a unique perspective of Putrajaya Cruise Tasik, visitors can enjoy watching the most beautiful sights of Putrajaya.
